I am a new owner on this app. I want to add a couple of campsites that I own in the Waterton area to this app.

From this home page, I begin by clicking on the “My Campsites” Button

I am brought to a page where my owned campsites are listed. As I have not added any of my campsites, the page is empty save for an “Add Campsite” button.

Wanting to change that, I click the “Add Campsite” button.

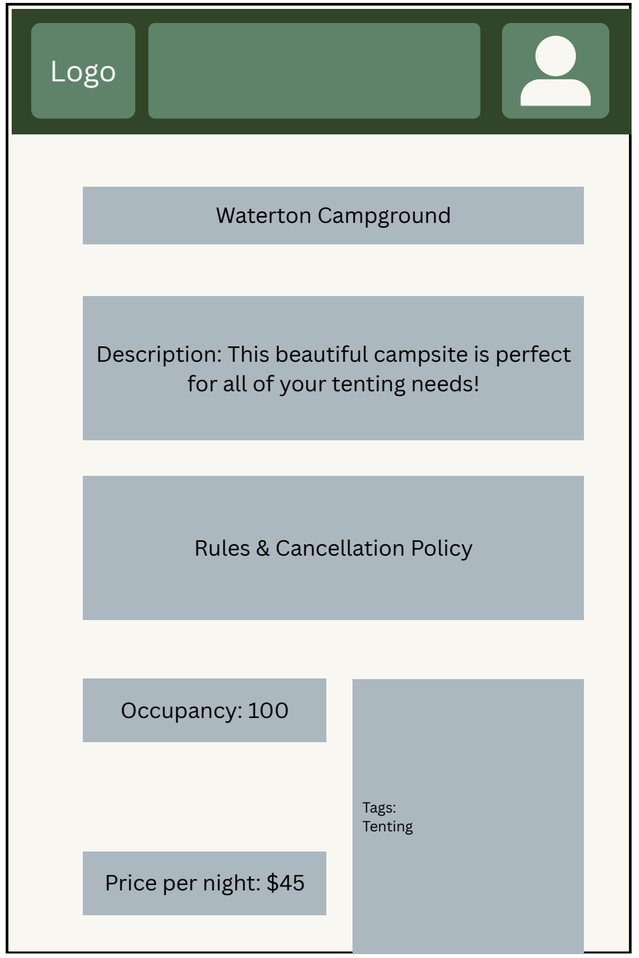

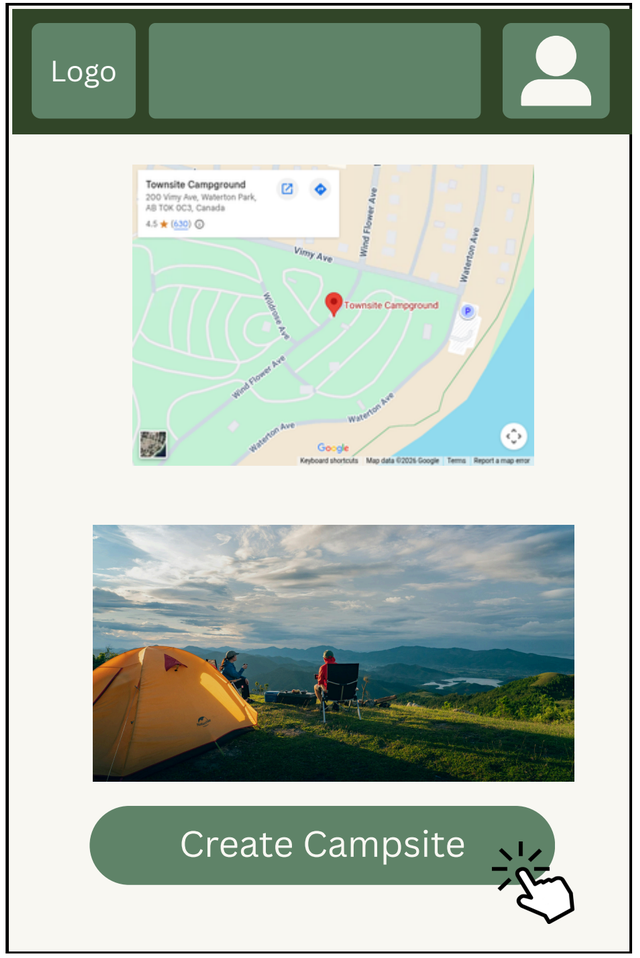

I am brought to a scrollable page that is prompting me to enter the details of my Campsite.

I enter the details of my campsite including the name, a general description, my occupancy, the camp's tags, and location.

Since I have a some promotional photos of this site, I upload them as well.

Once I'm done, I click the Create Campsite Button

I am returned to the campsites screen and Hooray! I can see my campsite on the list!

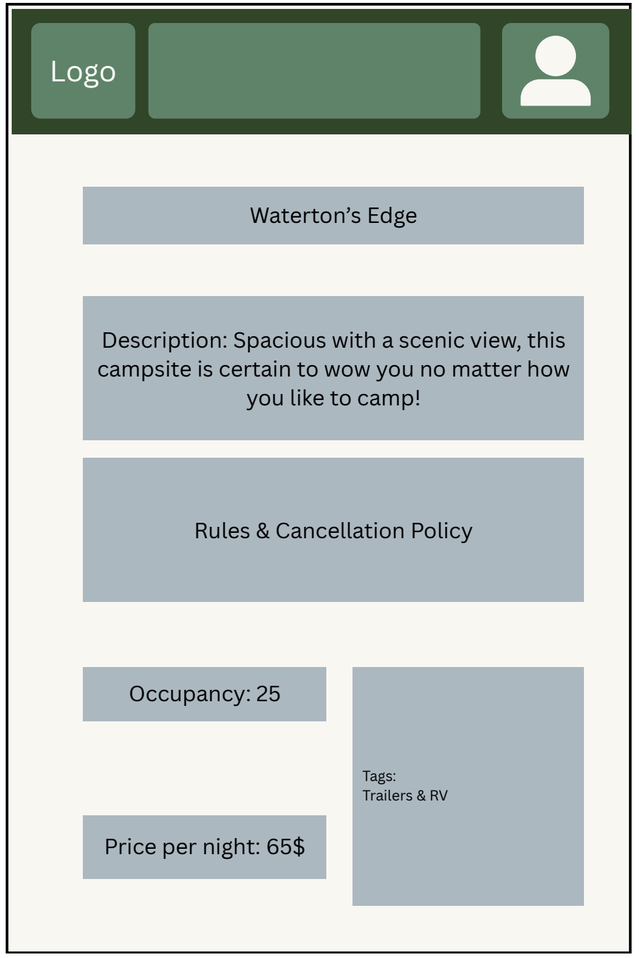

I have another campsite to enter, so I click the “Add Campsite” button once again.

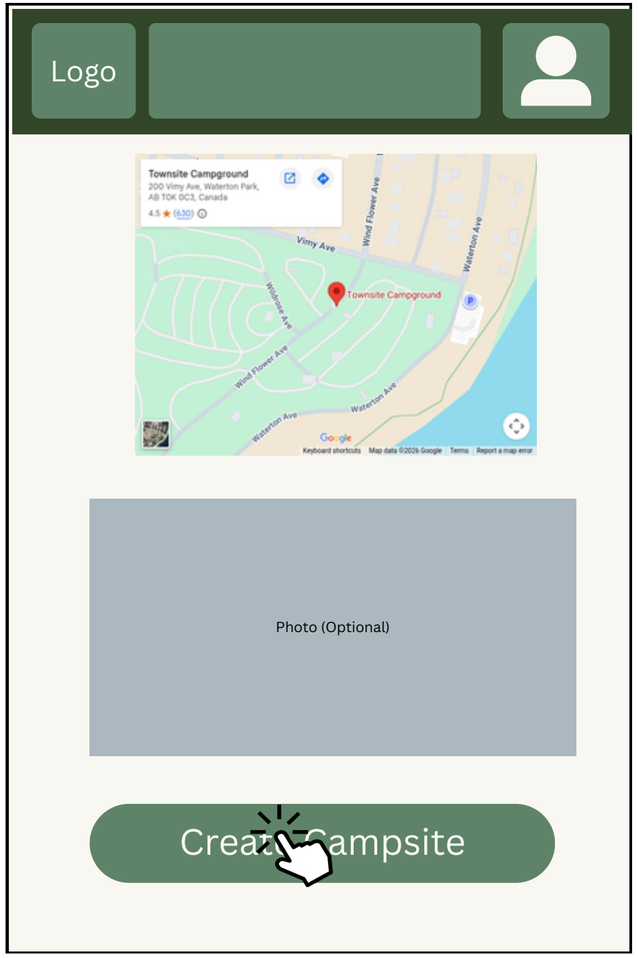

I am brought back to the empty information screen once again.

This time, I enter the information of the new campsite.

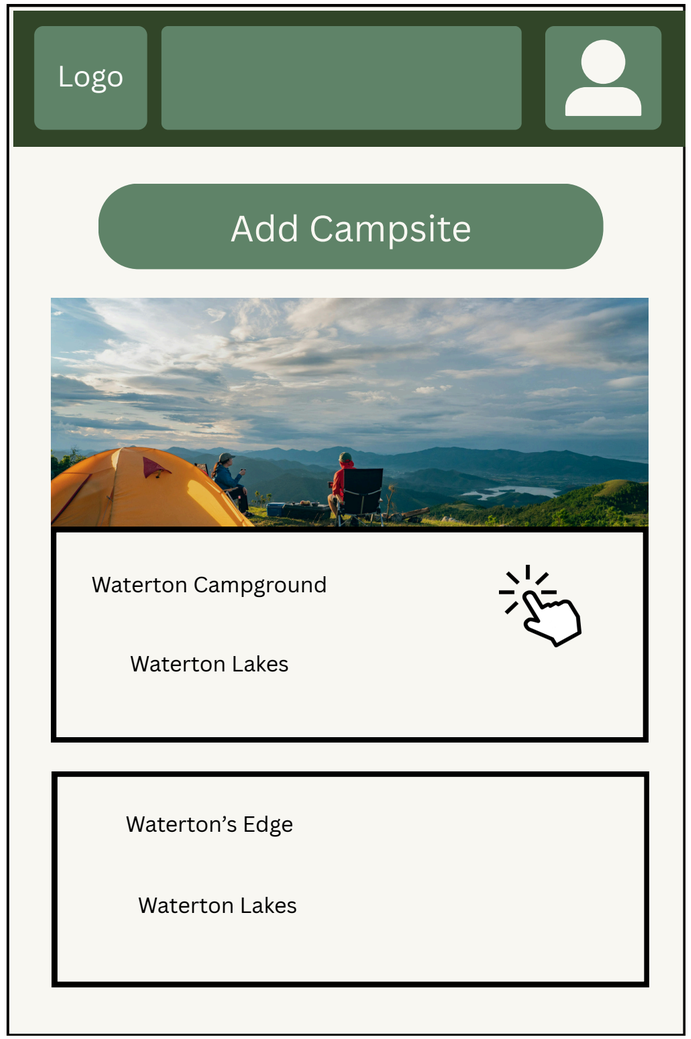

I don’t have any promotional photos so I leave that section blank for now.

I am returned to the campsites screen once again and now both of my campsites are visible!

Wanting to see the details of Waterton Campground, I click on its entry.

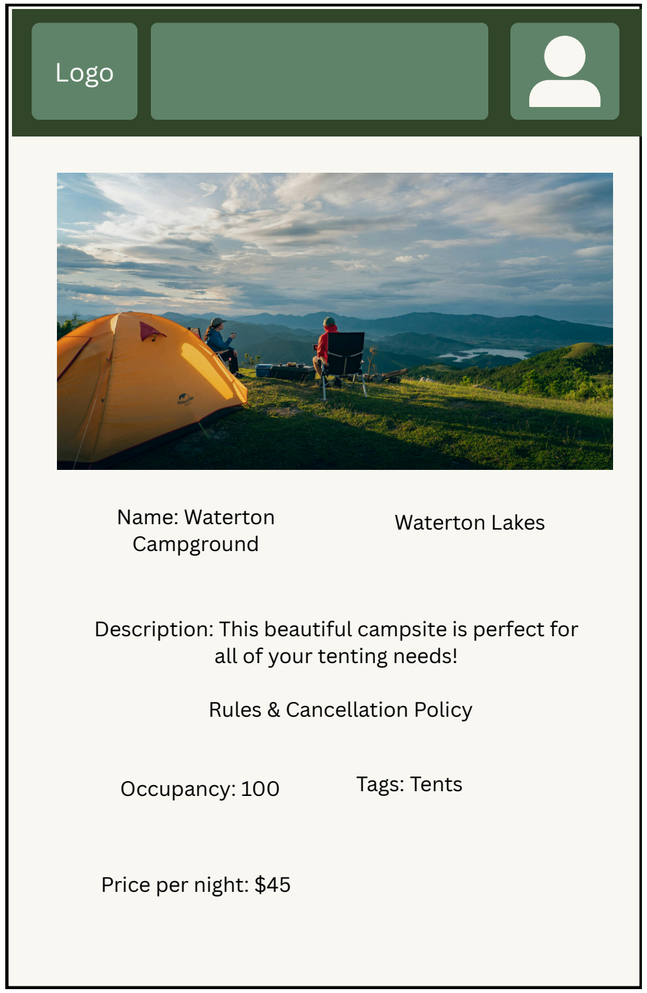

I am taken to a scrollable page that shows me all of the details of that campsite.

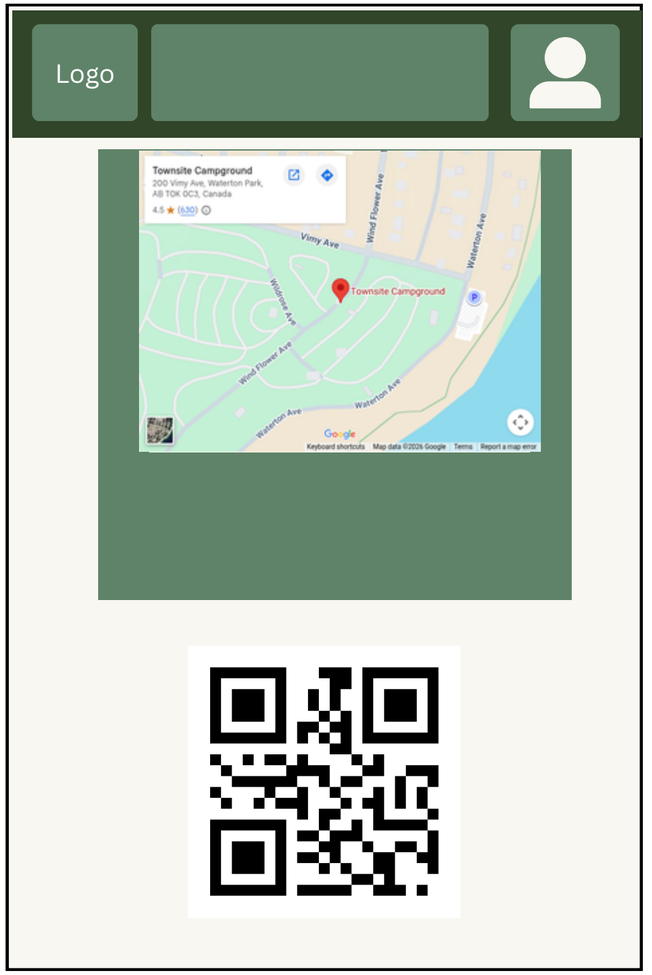

I also see that the site automatically made a QR code that links to my campsite

Oh no! I accidentally put the wrong occupancy on the details!

I need to change that!

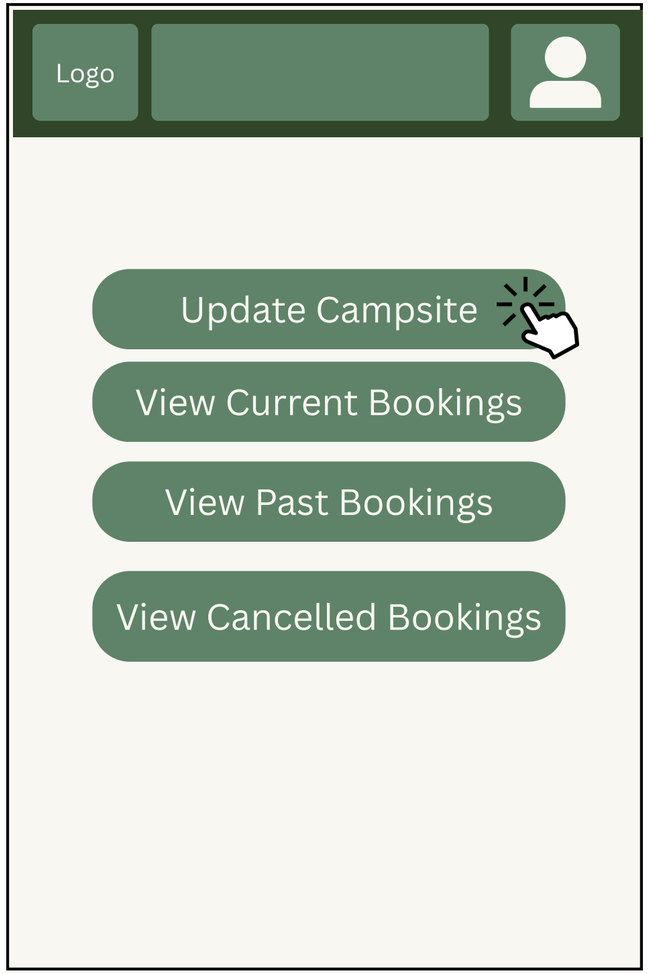

Scroll

Scrolling further down on that same page, I come across a series of buttons for bookings.

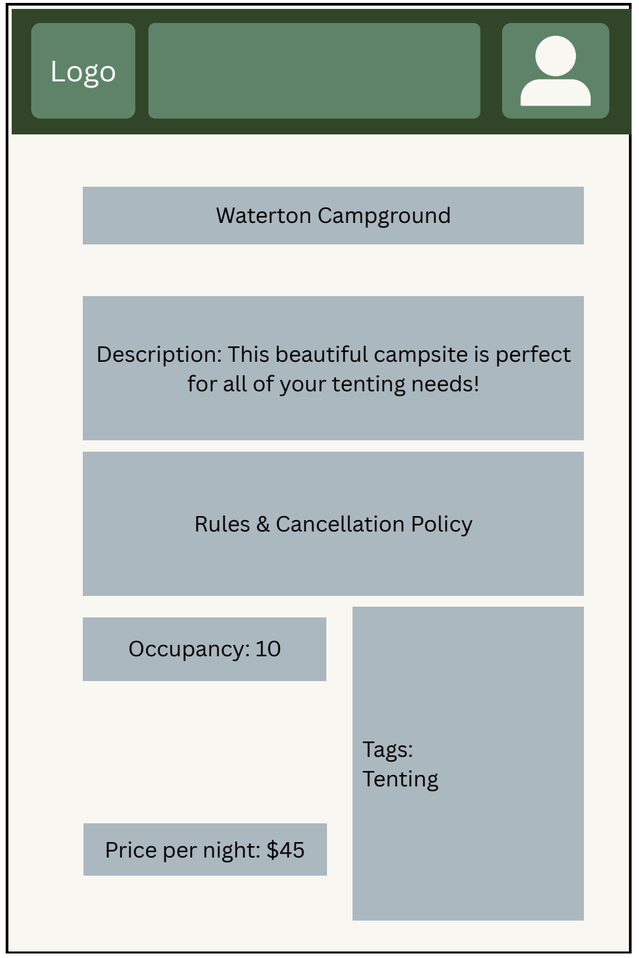

As I have not listed these sites in a lottery, I know that I won’t see any bookings on those buttons.

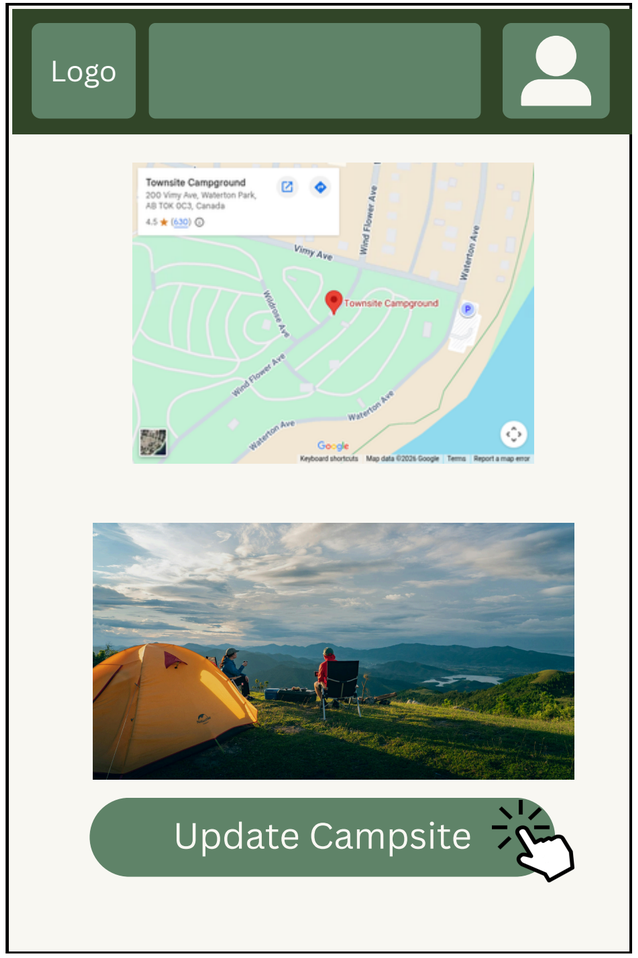

I see the “Update Campsite” button and click on that.

I am brought to a scrollable page that is very similar to the campsite creation page.
All of the current details for this campsite are in their respective boxes.

I update the occupancy to reflect the actual limit. After checking that all other information is as intended, I click on the “Update Campsite” button.

I am returned to the Campsite’s details page and Huzzah! my changes have been reflected in this page!
